

University of Saskatchewan's provincial program

Purpose:

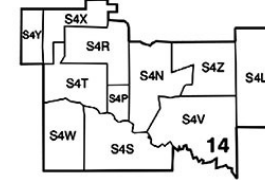

Aligning with the University Plan, the 2019 provincial program will build provincial profile for USask, while distinguishing the university as an essential community partner by documenting our growing impact on prosperity, quality of life, social resilience, ecological sustainability, and student success throughout our provincial senate districts. The program aims to position USask as the province's university and surrounding communities will understand that our institution truly has the province and its people at the forefront of our vision and mandate.

University of Sask. makes connections to community

Greg Nikkel

A group of representatives from the University of Saskatchewan spent the day in Weyburn on Thursday, as they sought to make connections with the community as part of a new campaign.

The group included vicepresident Debra Pozega Osburn, Sara Daniels, the associate vice-president of government relations, and Alexandra Foster, director of government relations, and they reached out to many stakeholders and leaders in the community during their visit.

Touring Souris Valley Industries' facility A group from the University of Saskatchewan watched the operation of an MBK cage welding machine at Souris Valley Industries as it created a wire form used in concrete projects, during Thursday afternoon. The university vice-president, Debra Pozega Osburn, Sara Daniels, associate vice-president of government relations, and Alexandra Foster, director of government relations, along with operations manager Dubois, estimator coordinator for SVI.

Students are interested in the visit.
